

Out of the Desert – How to Get the Greatest Benefits from Our Problems

Are there any benefits from problem areas that come our way? Absolutely! There must be benefits if the Believer's Life is filled with conflicts and problems otherwise God would not allow them. Most of us want quick solutions to our problems, but God wants to make sure that all His disciplines for character development in us, and those around us, are accomplished before He removes the problems He allows in our lives. He is also more concerned that the right procedure be followed in solving the problems than the problems are actually resolved. It is the process of solving our problems that constitutes the most meaningful chapters of our life message and becomes the greatest help to other people. We should also remember that God writes the last chapter in any matter. We want to get out from under the pressure of our problems, but God wants to use that pressure to motivate us to a greater level of spiritual maturity than we would otherwise have achieved. Often our present problems are the results of past disobedience to the initial promptings of the Holy Spirit. Now God is using these problems to apply the pressures we need for complete obedience. If we fail to gain these benefits from our present problems we force God to raise-up a whole new set of problems with greater pressure than the present set.

1 – The Benefit of More “Grace” from God

The success in our life is entirely related to how much grace (which is the desire and power to do God's Will) God gives us (see Phil. 2:13). Rabbi Sha'ul prayed asked for grace to be multiplied in every Believer. How do we receive this grace? There is only one way – by being humbled (Jas. 4:6). Nothing is more humbling than experiencing conflicts we cannot solve, especially when these are displayed in the public eye of our neighbors, friends and family. But this is precisely the very experience that God uses to break our pride and arrogance by giving us His grace, which is more than sufficient for us.

2 – The Benefit of Self-Examination

God requires that we maintain a periodic program of self-examination since “if we would judge ourselves we should not be judged” (1 Cor. 11:31-32). When things are going well for us we are simply not easily motivated to do any self-judging. But when a major conflict arises and our spirit is grieved, we have the most effective motivation available to search out the inner motives, actions, words and attitude of our hearts since all of those Scriptures states will be judged by Yeshua, thus, the reproofs of instruction are indeed the way of life (Pro. 6:23)

3 – The Benefit of New Insights in Scripture

Vast areas of Scripture will never be meaningful to us unless we go through the experiences for which they give insight. It was for this reason that God allowed all of His servants in Scripture to experience problems (e.g., Job), and it is for this very reason that we must go through them as well. We must “Turn at my reproof, Behold, I will pour out my spirit on you; I will make my words known to you” (Prov. 1:23) This is why Psalms and Proverbs must be part of our daily disciplines – five Psalms and one Proverb for every day.

4 – The Benefit of Unifying Your Family

The foundation of our nation is the family. When a family begins pulling apart, God often allows a family member to experience problems they cannot resolve. God intends for this problem to motivate the family to pull together. Together the family should commit these kinds of problems to the Lord and ask for His blessing on the particular family member with the problem and on the entire family.

5 – The Benefit of Unifying the Congregation

When a problem is bigger than one family can solve, it is God's intention that it be shared (without unnecessary details) with the leaders of the congregation and then its members. As the congregation becomes concerned about a problem that threatens one of its families, the other families will be drawn together by prayer and the Spirit of God. In this way a family's problems can be used as a means of cleansing and purifying (removing spots and wrinkles by the washing of the Word, see Eph. 5:26-27) and raising the level of spiritual maturity in every other family in Yeshua's congregation.

Having come out of the desert it is time to enjoy the benefits of such an experience. Shabbat Shalom!
